

The mission of the UAF Film Program is to provide students with a critical understanding of the history, theory and technologies of cinema and new media arts, while giving students the opportunities, tools and resources needed for careers in media industries, to pursue graduate study, or become media artists. Through an interdisciplinary approach to film and media studies, the program will produce media literate professionals who can play a leading role in an increasingly information-centered world where virtually every profession will require skilled media creators.

UAF Film Program students will have the opportunities to produce their own creative, time-based content for a wide variety of multi-media applications. Emphasis will be placed on the cultures, lifestyles and environments of Alaska and the North, and the unique opportunities they afford for skilled media creators and artists.

How does the program relate to the Education mission of the University of Alaska and the MAU?

The movement towards a major degree in Film began in 1991 when Associate Professor, Anatoly Antohin, founded the UAF Film Club, followed by the approval of the Film Studies production (category 512), have increased from a statewide average of 37 jobs in 1997 to an average of 370 jobs in 2007! A 100% increase in video production jobs over 10 years reveals only one aspect of the potential growth of this medium. These numbers do NOT include television broadcasting, advertising, or web/internet based production.

In Spring of 2007, the Alaska State Legislature passes Senate Bill 230 which established a state film office and tax incentive program. This bill was signed into law by Governor Palin on June 4, 2008 and includes a provision that the state will certify an internship program to help develop the demands of the Alaska Film Industry. Maya Salganek testified to the Legislature in favor of SB 230 several times over the past year, and is currently working with the Film Office to develop the UAF Film degree program as a state certified program for the industry.
